

Imagine...sitting at a table with your designer planning the wedding dress of your dreams. He sketches your design ideas, takes measurements. While you preview his fine laces, he notices that your skin tone will reflect well in a more subtle color.

He may suggest a smooth, slender look or a more shapely style. Throughout your consultation, you hand select the material for your one-of-a-kind custom designed wedding gown. You and he create a dress of singular beauty...one as unique as you are.

Pablo Bailon is the custom designer who can deliver all of this, and for a price that you can afford. He creates his couture dresses with fine imported silk from Japan, France, and Italy. He prefers silk for its light comfortable fit and rich sheen.

After the preliminary decisions about the cut, color, and style, Pablo begins with a muslin pattern. Changes can then be made to the prototype, assuring a perfect fit. And, he sews his dresses without seams, adding to your comfort and the quality of the dress.

Pablo Bailon studied at the Fashion Institute of Technology and designed in the internationally acclaimed New York fashion houses of Amsale Aberra, Manale, and Junko Yoshioka.

“I highly recommend him...I love Pablo and it’s wonderful working with him. And his prices are incredibly reasonable for a one-of-a-kind dress.”

Victoria Turner, New York Mills, NY

“With Pablo, it’s all about you. You’re not just another number. I could never have bought a custom-made dress from any other designer for the price.”

Jennifer Baskinger Lake, Sauquoit, NY
